

Volkswagen have teased the exterior of the eighth-generation Golf, revealing an evolutionary design with new LED headlamps.

VW say the Mk8 Golf will be unveiled in October during an internal event hosted in Wolfsburg. They'r

VW's original plan was to debut the new Golf at the Frankfurt Motor Show in September, but now they will instead focus their efforts there on the public premiere of the electric ID hatchback, the first production model of the ID EV model family.

